Character descriptions

Her name was Mrs. Pratchett. She was a small skinny old hag with a moustache on her upper lip and a mouth as sour as a green gooseberry. She never smiled. She never welcomed us when we went in.

Week 2 Summer 1 At school

Setting descriptions

Excerpt from My Swordhand is Singing by Marcus Sedgewick.

The hut stood in a strange position. The river Chust, from which the village took its name forked in two here, as it snaked through the woods. With deep banks, the rivers had spent ten thousand years eating its way gently down into the thick soft dark forest soil.

Week 2 Summer 1 At home

Setting descriptions

Excerpt from Howl's Moving Castle by Diana Wynne Jones

It was quite a small room, with heavy black beams in the ceiling. By daylight it was amazingly dirty. The stones of the floor were stained and greasy, ash was piled within the fender, and the cobwebs hung in dusty droops from the beams. There was a layer of dust on the skull.

Week 3 Summer 1 At school

Setting descriptions

Excerpt from Over Sea, Under Stone by Susan Cooper

Trewissick seemed to be sleeping beneath its grey, slate-tiled roofs, along the narrow winding streets down the hill. Silent behind their lace-curtained windows, the little square houses let the roar of the car bounce back from their whitewashed walls.

Week 3 Summer 1 At home

Setting descriptions

Excerpt from The Graveyard Book by Neil Gaiman

The boy walked back down the south-west side of the hill, avoiding the old chapel; he did not want to see the place the Silas wasn't. Bod stopped beside a grave that looked the way he felt; it was beneath an oak that had once been struck by lightning, and now was just a black trunk, like a sharp talon coming out of the hill.

Week 4 Summer 1 At school

From Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone by J. K. Rowling

He was a big, beefy man with hardly any neck, although he did have a very large mustache. Mrs. Dursley was thin and blonde and had nearly twice the usual amount of neck, which came in very useful as she spent so much of her time craning over garden fences, spying on the neighbors.

Week 5 Summer 1 At school

A beach in Hawaii on a December day is like a day at a lake in mid August. The beach smells fresh, almost like a new ocean breeze air freshener. The sand is hot and looks like gold blended in with little white specks; it sparkles like the water running off the swimmers back and feels like walking on coals from a burning grill.
